PARODY—JUST BEFORE THE BATTLE, MOTHER!

Just before the battle, mother,
I was drinking mountain dew—
But when I saw the Rebs a marching,
To the rear I quickly flew.
Then the stragglers fast were flying—
Thinking of their homes and wives;
Thinking not of "glory," mother,
But of their own precious lives.

CHORUS:

Farewell, mother, you will never
See my name among the slain;
For if I only can skeedadle,
Dear mother, I'll come home again.

I've no taste for martial glory—
Fame and honor's all my eye;
I'd rather be a home-guard private,
Than a Brigadier come home to die.
Salt horse and crackers, dearest mother,
Are not the things to make one brave;
And I've not the least ambition
To fill an early honored grave.

Hark! I hear the bugle sounding!
My coward legs will run away—
I guess I'll get behind some cover,
And then I guess I'll be O. K.
Discretion far surpasses valor,
So I've often heard you say;
And those who love their lives, dear mother,
Won't fight—if they can run away.

TROUBLED HONEYMOON.

BY CLARA AGUSTA.

George Jameson and Katie Vaughan had a brilliant wedding. Everything was faultless—from the icing on the cake to the arrangement of the bride's waterfall.

Mrs. Vaughan cried just enough not to redden her nose; Vaughan did the dignified pater familias to a charm; and George and Katie were so affectionate as to give the world the idea that here was a match made in heaven.

The bridal breakfast over, the white moire antique and orange flowers were laid aside and the pretty traveling suit of alpacca with nazarine blue trimmings was donned—the sweetest love of a thing Madame D' Aubrey had up for the season. Then there was the little bonnet of gray silk to match the blue trimmings of the dress and Kate's eyes. The golden bird of paradise dropping its pinions over the crown, and it was such a fine morning, and everything looked propitious; and in the midst of congratulations and kisses, George and Kate started for the depot.

They arrived just in season. The whistle sounded in the distance. George buckled up his traveling shawl and Kate grasped her parasol.

"George, dearest," said the bride, "do run out and see to the trunks! I should die, if when we get to the Falls, my clothes should not be there! It would be dreadful to have to go to dinner in my traveling dress! Go see to them, there's a darling."

George vanished; the train puffing and smoking shot into the depot. Conductor popped his head into the ladies' room, shouting at the top of his voice:

"All aboard for Danville! Come hurry up ladies. Five minutes behind time and another train due!"

Katie did not know whether she was bound for Danville or not; probably she had better get in and let George follow. So she entered the long and smoky vehicle feeling very much at sea, and ready to cry at the slightest provocation. The conductor passed by her seat; she caught him by the arm.

"Is my husband—"

"Oh, yes, yes all right," said the official hurrying on in a way officials have. "I'll send him right along," and he vanished from view in the long line of moving carriages. Meanwhile George having seen to the baggage- a proceeding that had occupied more time than he had intended—returned to the ladies' room to find Kate missing—searched about wildly, inquiring of every one he met without success,

"She's probably already in the train, sir," said a ticket agent of whom he made inquiry. "You are going to Buffalo, I think you said; that's the train to Buffalo; you'll likely find her there. Just starting, not a moment to lose."

George grasped the railing of the hind car as it flew by, and flinging open the door, he rushed through car after car, but seeking in vain for Kate. She was not on the train. "Most likely she got on the wrong train and went by Greton," said the conductor. "Greton is a way station fifteen miles further ahead. We stop there fifteen or twenty minutes for refreshments you'll doubtless find her there."

The cars flew over the track. George mentally blessed the man who invented steam engines—he could reach Kate so much the sooner. Dear little thing! how vexed and troubled she must be—and George grew quite lachrymose over her desolate condition.

But it seemed ages to George before they whirled up to the platform at Greton, and then he did not wait to practice any courtesy. He leaped out impetuously, knocking over an old lady with a flower pot and a bird cage in her hand, demolishing the pot and putting the birds into hysterics. The old lady was indignant, and hit George a rap with her umbrella, that spoiled forever the fair proportions of his bridal beaver, but he was too much engaged in thought of his lost bride to spare a regret for his hat.

He flew through the astonished crowd mashing up a crinoline here, and knocking over a small boy there, until he reached the clerk of the station. Yes, the clerk believed there was one lady who come alone; she had gone to the Belvidere House—she must be the one.

George waited to hear no more. He turned up the street to the place, where the landlord assured him that no lady of Katie's description had arrived; perhaps she had stopped at Margate, ten miles back. George seized on the hope. There was no train to Margate until the next morning, but the wretched husband could not wait all night, he would walk.

He got directions about the roads; was told that it was a straight one—for the most of the way through the woods—rather lonesome than pleasant. He set forth at once, not stopping to swallow a mouthful. Excitement had taken away his appetite. The fine day had passed into a cloudy evening—the night would be much darker than usual.

George hastened on too much excited to feel fatigue—too much agonized about his darling Katie to notice that he had split his fine French gaiters open all down both sides.

After three or four hours he began to think that something must be wrong. He ought to be approaching the suburbs of Margate. In fact he ought to have reached the village itself some time since. He began to be a little doubtful about his being on the right road, and began to look about him. There was no road at all, or rather it was all road; for all vestige of fences and wheel tracks had vanished—there was forest, forest everywhere.

The very character of the ground beneath his feet changed at every step he took. It grew softer and softer, until he sank ankle deep in the mud; and suddenly, before he could turn about, he fell in almost up to his armpits. He had stumbled into a quagmire! A swift horror came over him! people had been known to die in places like this—and it would be so dreadful to die thus and Katie never know what had become of him. He struggled with all the strength of desperation to free himself, but he might as well have taken it coolly. He was held fast.

Thus slowly the hours wore away—the night was ages long. The sun had never taken so much time to rise in; but probably it realized that nothing could be done until it was up, and was not disposed to hurry.

As soon as it was fairly light George began to scream at the top of his voice, in the hope that some one who might be going somewhere might hear him. He amused himself in that manner for an hour; and at the end of that time you could not have distinguished his voice from that of a frog close by, and who had been doing his best to rival our hero all the time.

At last just as George was beginning to despair, he heard a voice in the distance calling out:

"Hello, there, is it you or a frog?"

"It's me, cried George, and I shall be dead in ten minutes! Come quick! I'm in the mud up to my eyes!"

Directly an old woman appeared, a sun-bonnet on her head and a basket on her arm. She was blackberrying.

"The land sake,' cried she, you're in for it. ain't ye?"

"Sarved ye right. I'm glad of it! Didn't ye see the notice the old man put up that nobody must come blackberrying in this ere swamp?"

"Blackberrying!" exclaimed George angrily. "You must think a fellow was a fool to come into the jungle if he knew it. Blackberrying, indeed! I'm after my wife."

"Land sake! Yonr wife? Well of all things I declare I never!"

"She got on the wrong train and so did I; and I expect she's at Margate, and I started from Greton last night to walk there, and lost my way. Help me out, do, that's a dear woman."

The old woman steadied herself by a tree, and being a woman of good muscle, she soon drew him out—mud from head to foot. He shook himself.

"There, if you will show me the way I'll go right on to—"

"No you won't either. You'll go right over to our house and have a cup of coffee and something to eat, and a suit of the old man's clothes to put on while I dry yours; and I'll send Tom over to Margate with the horse and wagon to bring your wife."

"You're a trump," cried George, wringing her hand. "God bless you! You shall be rewarded for your kindness."

Mrs. Stark's house was only a little way distant, and to it she took George. Tom was dispatched to Margate to hunt up Mrs. Jameson, and George, arrayed in a suit of Mr. Stark's clothes—blue swallow tailed coat, home-made, gray pantaloons, cowhide boots and white hat with a broad brim—for the Starks were Friends—felt like a new man.

They gave him a good breakfast, which did not come amiss, and while Tom was absent, the old lady made him lie down on the lounge and take a nap. Tom returned about noon. He had scoured the whole village, but found nothing. Only one passenger had left the train at Margate on the previous day, and he was an old man with plasters for sale.

Poor George was frenzied. He rushed out of the house and stood looking first up and then down the road, uncertain which way to wend his course. Suddenly the train from Greton swept past, and a white handkerchief was swinging from an open window, and above the handkerchief George caught a glance of the golden hair and blue ribbons! It was Kate beyond a doubt. He cleared the fence at a bound and rushed after the flying train. He ran until he was ready to drop, when he came upon some men with a hand car, who were repairing the rails. He gave them ten dollars to take him to Greton. He was sure he would find Kate there.

But no, the train had not stopped at all. This was the express train for Buffalo. But a bystander informed him that a lady answering the description he gave of Kate, had been seen the day before at Danville, crying, and saying she had lost her husband.

George darted off. He caught with avidity at the hope thus held out. It must be Katie! Who else had lost her husband?

A train was just leaving for Danville. He sprang on board and suffered an eternity during the transit, for it was an accommodation train, and everybody knows about those horrible delays at nearly every station.

But they reached Danville at last. George inquired for the lady who had lost her husband. Yes, she was all right. She had gone to the American House to wait him. She expected him by every train, till he came, said the ticket master.

He hurried with all speed to the American House.

Yes, she was there, said the clerk; she was waiting for her husband; room 221, right hand, second flight.

George flew up stairs, burst open the door of 221, and entered without ceremony. She was sitting by the window looking for him, with her back to the door. He sprang forward and holding her in his arms, rained kisses on her face.

"My Katie! my darling! have I found you at last?"

She turned her face and looked at him before she spoke, and then she sat up such a scream as made the hair stand on George's head.

"You are not my James!" she cried. "Oh, heaven! Help, help! Somebody come quickly! I shall be robbed and murdered! Help! help! help! murder! thieves!"

George stood aghast. The lady was middle-aged, with false teeth and a decidedly snuffy looking nose. No more like the charming little Katie than she was like Venus De Medici.

He turned to flee just as the stairway was filled with people alarmed by the cries of the woman. They tried to stop him, but he would not be stayed. He took the stairs at a leap, and landed somewhere near the bottom among the wreck of three chambermaids, and as many white aproned waiters.

And before any one could seize him, was rushing down over the front steps. A lady and gentleman were slowly ascending them, and George in his mad haste, ran against the lady, and broke in the rim of her bonnet.

"You rascal!" cried the gentleman with her, "what do you mean by treating a lady in this manner?" and he seized our hero by the collar.

Then for the first time George looked at the couple before him.

"'Tis Katie! Oh, Katie!" cried he for this time there was no mistake; it was Katie and her uncle Charles. "Oh, my wife! my wife!"

He tried to take her in his arms, but she fled from him in terror.

"Take that dreadful man away," she cried. "I am sure he is either insane or drunk. Only see his boots and his awful hat."

"I tell you I am your own George! Oh, Katie, where have you been?" exclaimed he.

Katie looked at him now, and recognizing him, began to cry.

"Oh, dear! that I should ever have lived to see this day! My George that I thought so pure and good, faithless and intoxicated! Oh, uncle Charles, what will become of me?"

"My dear niece be patient," said her uncle. "I think this is George, and we will hear what he has to say before condemning him. Mr. Jameson, I met your wife in the cars yesterday, and she informed me that you had deserted her at the Windham Depot. Of course I could not believe that your absence was intentional, and I persuaded her while I telegraphed to to the different stations along the road for information of you, to remain here. Why did I not receive an answer?

"Because the telegraph does not run into old Mr. Stark's blackberry swamp, where I had the honor of spending last night," said George, losing his temper.

"But this extraordinary disguise."

"My clothes were muddy, and I wore Mr. Stark's," said George. And though the explanation was not particularly lucid to those who heard it, they were perfectly satisfied.

"My dearest George," cried Katie, rushing into his arms, "and so you did not desert me, and I shan't have to be divorced at all!"

"Never, my darling! and we'll never be separated again for a moment."

"No, not for all the baggage in the world. Oh, George you don't know how I have suffered."

The crowd could be kept in ignorance no longer, for scores had gathered around the hotel, drawn thither by the disturbance. Matters were explained, and cheers long and loud rent the air.

The landlord got up an impromptu wedding dinner, at which Kate presided; and George, looking very sheepish in Mr. Stark's swallow-tail, did the honors.

They proceeded on their tour next day, and soon afterward Mr. and Mrs. Stark were delighted to receive a box by express containing the lost suit of clothes, and the wherewithal to purchase him another, besides the most handsome silk bonnet for Mrs. Stark that the old lady had ever seen in all her life.

"There old man," said she, turning from the glass at which she had been surveying herself in the new bonnet, "I allers told you that blackberry swamp would turn to something if it was only to raise frogs in. Guess I hit it sometimes."

THE LAND BEYOND THE RIVER.

The little child was dying. His weary limbs were racked with pain no more. The flush was fading from his thin cheek, and the fever that for many days had been drying up his blood, was now cooling rapidly, under the touch of the icy hand that was upon him.

There were sounds and tokens of bitter, but suppressed grief, in the dim chamber, for the dying little one was very dear to many hearts.

They knew that he was departing, and the thought was hard to bear; but they tried to command their feelings, that they might not disturb the last moments of their darling.

The father and the mother and the kind physician, stood beside dear Eddy's bed, and watched his heavy breathing. He had been silent for some time, and appeared to sleep. They thought that it might be thus that he would pass away. But suddenly his blue eyes opened wide and clear, and a beautiful smile broke over his features. He looked upward and forward at first, then turning his eyes upon his mother's face, said in a sweet voice:

"Mother what is the name of the beautiful country that I see beyond the mountains—the high mountains?"

"I can see nothing, my child," said the mother; "there are no mountains in sight of our home."

"Look, there, dear mother," said the child; "yonder are the mountains. Can you not see them now?" he asked in tones of the greatest astonishment, as his mother shook her head. "They are so near me now—so large and high, and behind them the country looks so beautiful, and the people are so happy—there are no sick children there. Papa, can you not see beyond the mountains? Tell me the name of that land."

The parents glanced at each other, and with united voice replied, "That land you see is Heaven, is it not my child?"

"Yes, it is Heaven. I thought that must be its name. Oh, let me go—but how shall I cross those mountains? Father, will you not carry me, for they call me from the other side, and I must go."

There was not a dry eye in the chamber, and upon every heart their fell a solemn awe, as if they stood upon the very verge of eternity—as if the curtain which concealed its mysteries were about to be withdrawn.

"My boy," said the father, "will you not stay with us a little while longer? You shall cross the mountains soon, but in stronger arms than mine. Wait—stay with your mother a little while longer; see how she weeps at the thought of loosing you."

"O mother! O father! do not cry, but come with me and cross the mountains—oh come!" and thus he entreated, with a strength and earnestness that astonished all.

The chamber was filled by wondering and awe stricken friends. At length he turned towards his mother, with a face beaming with rapturous delight, and stretching out his little arms to her for one last embrace, he cried, "Good-bye, mother, I am going, but don't you be afraid—the strong man has come to carry me over the mountains!" These were his parting words; upon his mother's breast he breathed his last and they laid the fair little body down again on the pillows, and closed the lids over the beautiful blue eyes, over which the mist of death had gathered heavily, and bowing by the bedside, prayed with submissive, though bleeding hearts, and said, "The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord."

A REMARKABLE WALKER.—A human curiosity is expected shortly in California, in the person of a man by the name of Frederick Shaffner, a German, whose peregrinations have extended all over Europe, and the greater part of Asia and Africa, and who is now on his way to the Pacific coast, via Salt Lake, and thence to Japan, China. He is making the tour of the world on foot. Mr. Shaffer is about thirty years old, and is far below the common stature, being only about four feet six inches in hight, owing to a disease or deformity of the spine. He is said to be very intelligent, and converses freely in several different languages. He will be somewhat puzzled by the Indian dialects on the plains.

THREE verdicts have been obtained in New York courts against city railroads, within ten days, for damages for running over persons. One verdict was for five hundred dollars, another was for fifteen hundred dollars, and a third for twenty-five hundred dollars.

DROPSICAL.—When has a lady more water in her system than when she has cataracts on her eyes, a creek in her back, a watherfall on her poll, and her shoes high-tied? When she has a notion in her head.

GREAT as you may be, the cradle was your world once, and over it, the only horizon you beheld, bent the heaven of a mother's eye as you rocked in that little bark of love.

WHY is the author the most peculiar of animals? Because his tale comes out of his head.

A FUNNY ADVENTURE.

"I never attended but one temperance lecture," said our friend B——, with a smile, "and I don't think I shall ever attend another."

"You probably found it dry?"

"Well, yes—but that isn't it. The lecture was well enough, but I got into such an awful scrape after it was over, that I never think of temperance without a shudder. I'll tell you all about it."

"It was in N——, where I was somewhat of a stranger, and the night was one of the worst of the season. Boreas! how it blew! It was enough to take one's breath away. Well, the lecture was over, and making my way through the crowd, I lingered in the doorway, contemplating the awful scene, when somebody thrust an arm within my own and clung to me with a bear-like hug."

"Where have you been," said the sweetest voice in the world, "I have been looking for you everywhere."

Very much to my surprise, I turned and saw—but I can't describe her. It makes me sad to think how prodigiously pretty she was. With her left hand she leaned on my arm, while with her right she was arranging her veil, and did not notice my surprise.

"You have been looking for me?"

"Yes, now let's be going," was her reply, pressing my arm.

A thrill went to my heart. What to make of my lady, I did not know—but to accompany her. We started off in the tempest, the noise of which prevented any conversation. At length she said with a scream:

"Put your arm around me, or I shall blow away."

I need not describe to you my sensations as I pressed her to my side and hurried on. It was very dark; nobody saw us; and, allowing her to guide my steps, I followed her motion through two or three short streets, until she stopped before an elegant mansion.

"Have you your key?" she asked.

"My key!" I stammered, "there must be some mistake."

As she opened the door, I stood ready to bid her good-night, or to have some explanation, when, turning quickly, she said:

"How queer you act to-night—ain't you coming in?"

There was something very tempting in the suggestion. Was I going in? A warm house and a pretty woman were certainly objects of consideration, and it was dreary to think of facing the driving storm, and seeing her no more. It took me three quarters of a second to make up my mind, and I went in.

There was a dim light in the hall, and as my guide ran rapidly up stairs, why I could do no better than run up too. I followed her into a very dark room.

"Lock the door, John," she said.

Now as if I were the only John in the world, I thought she knew me. I felt for the key, turned the lock without hesitation, wondering at the same time what was coming next. Then a awful suspicion of some horrid trick flashed upon my mind; I had often heard of infatuated men being lured to destruction by pretty women, and I was on the point of opening the door when my lady struck a light. Then to my dismay, I discovered I was in a bed-room along with a strange woman. I said something, I don't know what it was; but the lady lighted a lamp, looked, stared at me an instant, turned as white as a pillow-case, and screamed:

"Who are you? How came you here? Go quick—leave the room; I thought you were my husband;" and covering her face with her hands, she sobbed hysterically.

I was nearly petrified. Of course I was as anxious to leave as she was to have me; but in my confusion instead of going out of the door I came in at, I walked into a closet, and before I could rectify my error there came a thundering at the hall door.

The lady's real husband had come, and she flew to let him in. Well aware that it would be of no use to try to get out of the house by any other way than that in which I had entered it, and convinced of the danger of meeting the man, who might fall into the vulgar weakness of being jealous, I was trying to collect my scattered senses, in the darkness, when the wrathful husband burst into the room followed by Madam. The light was extinguished, and while she was searching for a match the gruff voice raved and stormed, jealous and revengeful.

"I know he is here; I saw him come into the house with you. You locked the door; I'll have his heart out, where is he?"

"Hear me! Here me! I will explain," urged the lady.

As I listened to hear the explanation, the husband walked plump against me, and at the same moment the light appeared.

"Well B——," we cried, deeply interested, for we knew that every word of his story was true, "how did you get out of the scrape?"

"I used a violent remedy for so violent a complaint. Driven into a corner—my life in danger—perceiving at a glance that Othello was not as strong as I was, I threw myself upon him, fell with him, and held him there until I had given him a full explanation of the error, made him hear reason, and tamed him to be as gentle as a lamb. Then I left rather unceremoniously, and I have never seen Othello or Desdemona since.

"CRAWLED UP HIS TROUSERS-LEG."—A country friend sends the following:

Nat, a neighbor of ours, is very poor, rather light-fingered, and, it is said, is not as bright as his parents could wish.

The other day, while passing a neighbor's, Nat saw a brood of chickens, and immediately caught a fine one to carry home. He had not gone far, however, before he unexpectedly saw the owner coming up street; and not knowing what to do with the chicken, in order to conceal it, at last succeeded in crowding it into his hat. But the chick having a certain longing for liberty, and being also pressed for air, managed to thrust its head through an opening in the crown of Nat's old straw hat. Nat was presently accosted thus:

"What have you got in your hat?"

"Nothing but my head," said Nat.

"But I see a chicken's head sticking through the top of it, Nat."

Nat, taking off his hat, and looking at it in feigned astonishment, replied:

"Well, how do you s'pose that critter come in there? I swear! he must have crawled up my trousers leg."

AT the last printers festival on Franklin's birth day the following was one of the regular toasts: "The editor and lawyer—the devil is satisfied with the copy of the former, but requires the original of the latter."

DUTCH FLAT ENQUIRER.

SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 2, 1866.

Now, by St. Paul, the work goes bravely on,
The Stars and Stripes are up for Liberty,
Flag of the Nation--Talisman of the Free,
Curs'd be the hand that dares to pull thee down.

EXCHANGES, TAKE NOTICE!—We are authoritatively informed that the MEADOW LAKE DAILY REVEILLE, will issue its first number during the coming week. We are solicited to request our exchanges to add the REVEILLE to their lists and commence exchanging immediately. We hereby comply with the solicitation and feel safe in assuring the aforesaid exchanges that they will thus secure reliable advices from one of the prospective active centres of quartz-mining enterprize. Mail per Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express.

GATHERED TO HIS DOOM.—We were approached one day this week by a personage who represents by turns, in the drama of town affairs, the rolé of Philosopher, Wiseacre, Soothsayer, Prophet, etc., who, with mystical wave of his index finger, and awful inclination of his knowledge-box, drew nigh and whispered in our ear: "There never were so many men in love in Dutch Flat, as now; there is a perfect mania among the boys in that respect." Vexed and indignant that we should be arrested in our business course, and such information inflicted upon us--we, a man of family, whose steadily increasing moods of seriousness long since outstripped all interest in the puerile conceits and frivilous nothingnesses, which, if our memory serves us correctly, go to make up the elysium of lovers—we turned to demand an explanation of our staid informant, when we perceived him, distant a few paces from us, in the act of turning a summersault, which performance concluded was swiftly followed by the feat of standing on his head, his legs straightly pointing heavenward as in token of complete and perfectly balanced joy. And we turned officeward, mentally murmuring: Verily thou art one of 'em!

ALMOST A VENARD.—We are informed that the mill-residence of Messrs. Towle & Blanchard, situated about a mile east of town, was beset by robbers one night last week, who, after chloroforming the inmates of the place succeeded in removing the Company's safe from the room in which it was kept, to the porch of the house, and were still retreating with it when one of the inmates of the room from which the safe had been abstracted, recovering from his stupor, missing the safe and hearing the noise made by the robbers upon the porch, rushed forth in no other armor than his shirt, and equipped with no other weapon than a convenient article of chamber furniture, heroically put the robbers to flight and recaptured the safe. We have not been able to learn the name of this saw-mill hero, but understand that he is a young man and belongs to Lincoln Centre, Maine.

SUDDEN DEATH.—Mr. Robert Bookstaver, an old-time resident of this place, died very suddenly on Saturday night last. He had been complaining for a day or two of a pain in his chest, and on the day preceding his death had visited a physician for advice. It appears he was living alone, and that on the instant of his demise, feeling himself struck by the dart of the Grim Destroyer, he fled forth from his solitude, and knocking at the door of a neighbor's house stated that he was dying, and requested permission to enter and lie down, which permission being granted, he, in a few moments, breathed his last. Deceased was a native of New York, and had withstood the storms of seventy-four winters—surely buffetings enough for one so circumstanced. His aged wife died of the palsy at this place about a year ago. And thus the twain are again united.

GRIEVOUS IF TRUE.—As we go to press a rumor reaches us, through the Gold Hill News and Virginia Union, of the death of Gen. Scott, on the 29th of May at New York, and of Gen. Cass at Detroit, Mich., at the same hour, (11 o'clock, A. M.,) of the same day. Though this painful news would seem to require corroboration—no direct intelligence of the sad events having reached the Associated Press of this State—yet we may readily accept it as probable, as both of these distinguished men were full of years, as well as honors—General Scott being in his eighty-first and General Cass in his eighty-fourth year.

GOLD, SILVER AND IRON are the three staple metals of the world. In the two former, our State is rich beyond compare, and grand pretensions to wealth in the latter are warranted by the discovery of a large body of rich iron ore not far from Downieville. The deposit is said to be fourteen miles long, one thousand feet wide, and of depth unknown. The amount of iron in sight at the new mine is estimated at two millions tons. In quality, the ore is said to be precisely similar to that of Fahlum in Sweden, which is classed as the best in the world. A company has already been chartered for the establishment of extensive works.

RETURNED.—Lieut. W. H. H. Fellows and Private Jacob Bittinger of Company D, Seventh Regiment California Volunteers, says the Stars and Stripes, who enlisted under Capt. Calderwood at this place, and have been for some time past engaged in fighting Apaches down in Arizona, returned here on Monday last, their company having been recently mustered out of service. They look robust and hearty, as if a military life agreed with them. They received a cordial greeting from their many friends here.

GOOD TEMPLARS.—We are happy to state that this order which was organized but a few weeks since, are meeting with unbounded success, and add to their rolé of names three or four new members every meeting. Hereafter they will meet at the Hall over the Theater until further notice. You are requested to meet at your hall on next Tuesday evening, June 5th.

STILL A MYSTERY.—There as been nothing further elicited in regard to the murder of William Strother, which was perpetrated in our midst last week. We understand that diligent search is being made to bring the guilty party or parties to justice.

RAILROAD AND MINING ANTAGONISMS.

A great and, to us, seemingly unnecessary furore is sought to be created over the apparently conflicting interests of the Pacific Railroad Company and the miners occupying the public lands contiguous to the line of the railroad. Alike friendly to, and interested in the prosperity of both of these great interests, and alike disposed to see each secure every right and privilege to which it is entitled, either by the letter or spirit of existing laws, we are disposed to discuss all apparent antagonisms between the two without excitement, and with the deliberation due to the immense interests involved.

To suppose that the corporators of the Pacific Railroad are not, and will not be disposed to avail themselves of every privilege, and secure every iota of valuable property which they may legally enjoy or become possessed of, whether by the inflexible workings of law or the laches of those holding conflicting interests, is to give those corporators credit for less of the human, and more of the attributes of divinity, than are ordinarily met with in such institutions, or even between the individual inhabitants of this mundane sphere.

On the other hand, the magnitude of the work undertaken by this corporatiou and the vital public necessity for its consummation seemed, in the estimation of the National Government, to justify immense subsidies and public opinion seemed to justify governmental action in this respect. To the extent that pecuniary aid and grants of non-mineral lands were offered to encourage and secure railroad connection between the Atlantic and Pacific seaboards, the people have apparently sustained the action of the General Government. But, while the public interest admittedly justifies, perhaps, the grant of alternate sections of the public domain, to encourage this gigantic enterprise, such grant is only justified either by the letter of the law or in public estimation with the proviso that mineral lands are excepted. In granting the public lands the government evidently intended and the people supposed that lands of the average value of agricultural lands, in regions similarly situated with reference to climate and topographical considerations, were intended, and not the results of the risks, enterprise and expenditures of the hardy and venturesome miner.

As matters stand, there is no doubt but the Railroad Company will secure patents to every section and quarter section of land which the letter of the law will give them, and there is no good reason to suppose that they will attempt to submit, or encourage others in submitting evidence which will tend to divest them of valuable property, but, on the other hand, the law affords ample means for those holding adverse interests to submit their statements, and, if developed mineral regions are patented the miners will have but themselves to blame and must manfully bear the consequences—fretting and fuming or mad raving, after the style of our cotemporary of the Stars and Stripes, will not be half so effectual a cure after, as an application of the preventives provided by the plain and lucid provisions of law before any damage is done.

Instead of encouraging our mining community to fly into a passion and threaten dire consequences if the Railroad Company fail to prove the existence of minerals in the lands affected by their franchise, we would suggest a calm business view of the situation, and prompt, organized and effective action in conformity to law.

All that is required is, that the various mining communities liable to be affected by Railroad patents should meet and appoint reliable and intelligent men to inspect the lands in their district, prepare plain, unvarnished statements of their character, and appoint agents or attorneys to appear and prove the facts whenever exempt lands are sought to be patented. The identical law which makes the Railroad company a claimant, provides, through the means we have suggested, an ample and infallible protection to the miner.

We are confident that those who accept our counsel will find that we have suggested the cheapest and safest course, while those who heed the insane ravings of the Auburn "organ" will be convinced, when too late, that their breath had better been saved to cool their porridge.

NITRO-GLYCERINE.—The investigation of the causes of the late accidents with this terribly explosive agency, continues in New York, and the world grows wiser proportionally in this respect. From the evidence presented it appears that, concerning the late catastrophes, nobody is to blame, the oil is perfectly safe and harmless and simply blew up from maltreatment and in self defense. Now, from the general prevarication of witnesses called to testify in relation to these explosions, and the universal claims of irresponsibility in the matter put forth by every one concerned in its manufacture and transportation, and the style of these catastrophes begining at New York, and extending to this coast, where the projectors of the article might reasonably expect to reap their harvest, we are visited by the suspicion that the late series of Glycerine calamities were planned, as a method of swiftly introducing its claims to universal notice without expense to its proprietors and with a cost to the world of but a few buildings, wharves, steamboats and human lives. Now, undoubtedly, the world is under obligations more or less, to every inventor, and inventors are proverbially poor and unable to advertise their wares, but, premising that our "proposition" is correct, we very seriously raise our voice against any further balancing of claims with mankind by inventors, after this fashion.

OF INTEREST TO MINERS.—It is authentically reported, (says the Lyon County Sentinel,) that a combination of California capitalists have obtained control of the New Almsden, New Idria and Lake quicksilver mines for the space of two years. Having the monopoly of the quicksilver market, the price will undoubtedly advance. This is the most gigantic and injurious monopoly that has yet assailed the mining interests of this coast. An article so essential to the working of metals it is of the greatest importance to obtain plenty and cheap. As a counter-combination to these capitalists, we would recommend to our hydraulic miners, tight boxes.

THE REGISTRY LAW.

The Registry Law for the better protection of the ballot-box in this State, has already gone into effect, and in consideration of its importance to the citizen entitled to vote, we call attention to its requirements. It is now imperatively necessary that every citizen's name shall be duly recorded in the Great Register before he can be permitted to exercise the right of elective franchise; and, as but a comparatively short space of time will elapse before the general elections will occur, and as special contingencies are at any time liable to arise, the policy of attending to the matter at once is apparent. None can hereafter exercise the privilege but those who have registered their names thirty days prior to election.

The practicability of the law is, we are aware, like all measures of reform, flippantly questioned. We, however, believe it was framed by the best and wisest of the friends of republican institutions among us, and as the work of such men, is worthy of trial, and that it thus becomes the duty of all good friends of political reform to hasten and conform with its requirements and to aid and assist upon every possible occasion in making it practicable. To present a clearer elucidation of the law, we clip the following "deductions from the Citizens' Hand-Book," from the Jackson Ledger:

"All persons entitled to registration may, and if they conveniently can, should apply to the County Clerk directly for that purpose.—[Sec. 2.] All naturalized citizens, as well as those claiming citizenship by virtue of the naturalization of their parents while they were under age, must apply to the County Clerk directly, the Assessor having no power to inspect their certificates or to take any other proof of naturalization.—[Sec. 6, 7, 8.] * * Township Assessors in their respective townships, are to enroll and return to the County Clerk the names of all unregistered citizens.—[Sec. 5.] * * Still no one is obliged to register himself through the Assessor. He may, as stated above, apply directly to the County Clerk, and that course is most advisable for those who live at or within a convenient distance of or have occasion to visit the county seat. In all cases the entries must be sworn to.—[Sec. 3 and 5.]

Naturalized citizens, and persons born abroad, but becoming citizens by the naturalization of their parents, if they offer any proof other than the proper certificate of naturalization, must go before the County Judge, who will hear the proof in presence of the County Clerk. It must be satisfactory to both.

The County Clerk alone can accept no proof of naturalization other than the certificate in due form and under seal of court—[Sec. 7, 8 and 9.]

The proof of naturalization to be produced to the County Judge, when the proper certificate cannot be procured, is precisely specified.—[Same sections.]

Section nine has reference exclusively to natural born citizens, and contemplates two cases: First—Where they are personally known to the Clerk or Assessor to be such, in which case they are enrolled or registered on the personal knowledge of the officers, being required simply to make oath to the truth of the entries in the roll or register written opposite their names.

Second—Where they are not personally known to the officer to be natural born citizens, in which case proof of native citizenship is requisite. The degree or amount of evidence to be exacted, will, of course, vary greatly according to circumstances. In some cases very slight proof would be satisfactory. The officer is expected to exercise a reasonable and sound discretion. Authentic documents, sworn testimony, common repute, are all admissable. The sworn testimony in such cases, however, must be given by some registered citizen and inhabitant of the county.—[Same section."

The above constitutes the most important features referring directly to the matter of enrollment. After July 1, 1867, none but those registered in the Great Register can be enrolled as voters except in certain cases. It is made the duty of every Justice of the Peace, Constable, Judge and Clerk of Election, and every Supervisor, to use all practical diligence in notifying the inhabitants of his township, district or precinct, to register their names in the proper register and poll lists.

The County Clerk, Assessor or any member of the Board of Supervisors, are each and all liable to a fine of one thousand dollars and one year imprisonment in the State Prison or County Jail for wilful neglect, or refusal to perform any specific duty enjoined upon either of them by this Act. No fee can be exacted or other charges made against the voter for placing his name upon the Register. It is intended to mete out equal and exact justice to all—the rich and poor alike. Therefore let none complain of partiality in, or of ignorance of the requirements of this law, but proceed at once to call upon the County Clerk, register their names and get a certificate to that effect.

AMERICAN MANUFACTURES—THE AMERICAN WATCH CO., OF WALTHAM, MASS.—Every one knows that the mechanism of the best manufactories of this country is unequalled in any other part of the world. The genius of American mechanics produced the cotton-gin, the mechanical reaper and mower, the sewing-machine, and last but not least, the wonderful machinery of the American Watch Company of Waltham. This Company was established in 1850, and has grown in proportions which entitle it to a first rank among the manufacturing enterprizes of the new world. It employs between 900 and 1,000 artizans of superior skill and character, and a large and thriving town has grown up in its vicinity. The factory covers over three acres of ground, and as an illustration of its extent, we may mention that it is supplied with more than 60 miles of iron pipes and produces an aggregate of 75,000 watches per annum. The founders of this Company believed that the same delecate mechanical processes which had produced such remarkable perfect results in larger machines, might be applied with even greater advantage to the production of the watch. The foreign time-pieces are made principally by hand, and except when of high cost, an imperfect article, often out of repair, and of little value is the result. Abroad, these mysterious and infinitosimal organs which, when aggregated; produce the watch, are the fruit of slow and toilsome manual processes. In results, there must of course be lack of that correct uniformity which is indispensable for correct time-keeping. the constituent parts of the American watch, on the other hand, are fashioned by the most delicate and accurate machinery. Wheels, pinions, springs, screws, absolutely uniform in weight, circumferenc, dimensions, and in every possible particular, are turned out in myriads of unerring fingers of steel, and their proper combination and adjustment by skillful workmen have given the Company its high reputation. Its watches not only go with the trade and go in the pockets of 200,000 people, but they go right and go everywhere.—Exchange.

TEN THOUSAND LABORERS WILL BE IMMEDIATELY THROWN OUT OF EMPLOYMENT!!!—When the AUBURN STARS AND STRIPES shall have succeeded in crushing the Pacific Railroad Company.

REDUCTION IN PRICE OF THE
AMERICAN WATCHES,
Made at Waltham, Mass.

In consequence of the recent great decline in gold and silver and all the materials used in the manufacture of our goods, and in anticipation of a still further decline, we have reduced our prices to as low a point as they can be placed

WITH GOLD AT PAR.

So that no one need hesitate to buy a watch now from the expectation that it will be cheaper at some future time. The test of ten years, and the manufacture and sale of

More than 200,000 Watches,

Have given our productions the very highest rank among time-keepers. Commencing with the determination to make only thoroughly excellent watches, our business has steadily increased as the public became acquainted with their value, until for months together we have been unable to supply the demand. We have repeatedly enlarged our factory buildings until they now cover over three acres of ground, and give accommodation to more than eight hundred workmen.

We are fully justified in stating that we now make MORE THAN ONE-HALF OF ALL THE WATCHES SOLD IN THE UNITED STATES. The different grades are distingnished by the following trade marks engraved on the plate:

1.—"American Watch Co.," Waltham, Mass.
2.—"Appleton, Tracy & Co.," Waltham, Mass.
3.—"P. S. Bartlett," Waltham, Mass.
4.—"Wm. Ellery."
5.—OUR LADIES' WATCH of first quality is named "Appleton, Tracy & Co.," Waltham, Mass,
6.—Our next quality of Ladies' Watch is named "P. S. Bartlett," Waltham, Mass. These watches are furnished in a great variety of sizes and styles of cases.

The American Watch Co., of Waltham, Mass., authorize us to state that without distinction of trade mark or price,

All the Products of their Factory are fully Warranted

To be the best time-keepers of their class ever made in this or any other country. Buyers should remember that, unlike the guarantee of a foreign maker who can never be reached, this warrantee is good at all times against the Company or their Agents, and that if after the most thorough trial, any watch should prove defective in any particular, it may always be exchanged for another. As the American Watches made at Waltham are for sale by dealers generally throughout the country, we do not solicit orders for single watches.

CAUTION.—The public are cautioned to buy only of respectable dealers. All persons selling counterfeits will be prosecuted.

RHYMES FOR THE TIMES.

The exciting news received from Europe of late, overtook an Italian organ-grinder in our burgh, and aroused the dormant fires of patriotism in his breast, whereupon, his pecuniosity being in inverse ratio to his ardor, which urged him to contribute his mite to the cause of Italian unity, he was induced to negotiate a loan of our "imp" on the pledge of a second-hand-third-rate organ. The aforesaid progeny of Pluto having set it for the tune of "Oh, Stephen so deceiven'," the machine ground out the following:

JOHNSON'S POLICY.

"Give the Freedman's Bureau power,
The Freedmen to protect;" said Andy
"All right! we'll jurisprudence scour
To make him safe as any grandee."
Thus Congress said and forthwith made
A law such as His Highness bade.
"So ho!" said Andy, "this I must see to You traitors, you have forced a veto."
"This negro race the war has freed
Should have their Civil Rights defined,
For law to that effect I plead,
Be sure, if passed, it shall be signed."
Thus to Congress Andy spake
And Congress quick the law did make,
When he, in stubbornness consistent,
Swore he would never stick HIS fist on 't.

Yet once again to Congress came
This Presidential son of thunder,
When he did SPECIAL MESSAGE frame
As guarantee against a blunder,
In which with pathos he implores:
"To young Montana ope your doors!"
"Your will 's our law, puissant mortal."
Said Congress—"Lo, our wide-spread portal,"
Then Andy fumed—"Lord! how I'm twitted,"
"I'll swear they shall NOT be admitted."

From the language of the machine and the facts which inspired it, our young Plutonic deduces the following

MORAL.

If Bill you'd kill—by veto end it,
Get Johnson first to recommend it.

CAUGHT.—There are some shrewd chaps in San Francisco. The other day, says the Flay, Officer Barnstead was standing on Kearney street and a gambling capper saw and thought he recognized in him a green country chap, heard him jingling money—twenties. Thinking he had a soft snap, he invited him into one of the gambling hells and introduced him to a set of masked creatures. The game soon commenced, and their supposed "greeny" made a bet or two, then unceremoniously removed the mask from the face of the dealer, and by virtue of his authority, escorted the gentleman to the station house, where he gave bail for his appearance in the Police Court. He came to time yesterday morning, waived an examination, and was held to answer in the County Court. Bail fixed at $500.

THE DUANES CHARGED WITH ARSON.—We learn from the Sac. Bee of May 30th, that the brothers Duane have been served with a warrant charging them with arson, in burning down the house of John A. Kelly, on the day previous to the murder of Colonel Ross. This house stood upon the property in dispute between the Duanes, Kelly and Rosa. So far as Charles P. Duane is concerned, if the testimony on the trial should be the same as that before the Coroner's Jury, it is said that the charge of arson, even if proven to the fullest extent, would not aggravate his case much; but John Duane may be found guilty of a lesser offense, and in that case, the charge of arson would add largely to his term in the State Prison.

PROPERTY AT MEADOW LAKE.—In an ejectment case, from Meadow Lake, tried in the County Court yesterday, it was proven incidentally, that a town lot, which was worth little or nothing last Fall, would readily sell now for fifteen hundred dollars. The only improvement made on the lot is a small wooden shanty, which probably cost one or two hundred dollars, and which is of no value now, except for the lumber.—Nevada Gazette.

We can readily accredit the above statement, as we learn upon what we consider reliable authority, that Mr. Heyman, of this place, has a saloon at Meadow Lake which cost but one hundred and fifty dollars in building, and for which he, this week, refused the sum of three hundred dollars per month rent.

THE Nevada Gazette learns from some of the ladies interested in getting up the late strawberry festival for the benefit of the M. E. Church at Grass Valley, that they realized the handsome sum of six hundred dollars. Wake up, Dutch Flatters, and attend the strawberry festival at the Golden Eagle Hall on next Thursday evening. Here is a fine chance to prove to the world that you are not behind your Grass Valley neighbors in eating strawberries and ice creams, painting churches and building steeples.

ESCAPED FROM JAIL.—In Virginia, Nevada, on the night of May 26th, Lefevre, the Frenchman who murdered a man at a wood ranch a few miles north of the city two or three months ago, and Blair, who robbed Wood's Bank Exchange of some $500 in cash, made their escape from the county jail by assaulting and beating the jailor and confining him in their cell. We understand that a reward of three hundred dollars is offered for the arrest of the parties.

MORE IMPROVEMENTS IN SEWING-MACHINES. The new lock stitch, or shuttle sewing machine, recently brought out by the Grover & Baker Company, is the latest and one of the most perfect productions in the shuttle or lock stich sewing-machine line, and is obtaining an increased popularity as its merits become known. This Company have always taken the lead with their machines, making the Grover & Baker stitch, and now the public have their choice of two machines which make different stitches.—Detroit Free Press.

FOUND DEAD.—A correspondent of the ENQUIRER at Iowa Hill, writing under date of May 30th, says: Herman Meyers, a native of Germany, was found dead in his cabin on Humbug Canyon, and buried at this place yesterday. As the deceased had been previously complaining, it is supposed his death resulted from natural causes.

A MAGNIFICENT PRESENT.—Steve Venard, says the Transcript, yesterday received a magnificent gold mounted Henry rifle from Wells, Fargo & Co., for his gallant conduct in the pursuit and capture of the stage robbers in this county, recently. The rifle is one of the finest weapons we have ever seen. The mountings are richly carved. On the side of the stock is a handsome silver plate, upon which is carved a mountain scene. A man is represented (intended for Steve we suppose,) as shooting. Two robbers already lie dead, and the shootist is about to bring down the third. Upon this is carved the following: "Presented to Stephen Venard, by Wells, Fargo & Co., for his gallant conduct, May, 16th, 1866." Accompanying the rifle was four hundred cartridges. The following is the letter received with the present:

OFFICE OF WELLS, FARGO & CO.,
SAN FRANCISCO, May 29, 1866.

Mr. Stephen Venard—Dear Sir: We are gratified to acknowledge your good service to ourselves and the public, on the 15th instant, and as an expression of our appreciation, we forward for your acceptance a Henry rifle, and one hundred rounds of ammunition. Please accept it as a token of our good will.

Yours Truly,
LOUIS MCLANE, Gen'l. Agent.

SEVERE.—A Washington correspondent says that when the President, in his speech lately, propounded the conundrum, "Who made me President?" a wicked strict constructionist in the crowd responded "Booth."

ACKNOWLEDGMENT.—We acknowledge the receipt of an opening rose. We assure the donor that our elation is genuine and felt all over.

THE SOMERSET BLAST.—The interested and curious are informed that it is anticipated that the great Somerset bank blast will be exploded at about noon to-day.

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED
STOMACH BITTERS!
A PURE AND POWERFUL TONIC,
CORRECTIVE AND ALTERATIVE,
— of —
Wonderful Efficacy in Diseases of the STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.

Cures Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation, Colic, Intermittent Fever, Cramps, Spasms, and all Complaints of either Sex, whether arising from Bodily Weakness, whether inherent in the system, or produced by special causes.

NOTHING THAT IS NOT WHOLESOME. genial and restorative in its nature, enters into the composition of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind, no deadly botanical element; no fierce excitant; but it is a combination of the extracts of balsamic herbs and plants, with the mildest and purest of all diffusive stimulants.

As a General Tonic, HOSTETTER'S BITTERS produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be appreciated. In case of Constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay and Debility and Decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises an electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed it operates to reinforce and re-establish them.

The weak Stomach is rapidly invigorated and the appetite restored by this agreeable Tonic, and hence it works wonders in cases of DYSPEPSIA, and in less confirmed forms of INDIGESTION. Acting as a gentle and painless apparient, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive secretive organs.

Persons of feeble habits, liable to Nervous Attacks, Lowness of Spirits and Fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is most conclusive and from both sexes.

The agony of BILIOUS COLIC is immediately assuaged by a single dose of the stimulant, and by occasionally resorting to it, the return of the complaint may be prevented.

Last, though not least, It is the ONLY SAFE STIMULANT, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acid elements present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and somachics of the day.

No family medicine has been so universally, and, it may be truly added, deservedly popular with the intelligent portion of the community, as HOSTETTER'S BITTERS.

Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Storekeepers every where, and by

HOPE FOR THE AFFLICTED.—In another part of this paper will be found the advertisement of the celebrated Institute established by Dr. J. C. YOUNG, in 1850. In this age of deceit and charlatanism, it is a boon to the suffering to point out to them where they are sure of obtaining the wished for relief and cure. Under the care of the skillful Doctor the sick and troubled can divest themselves of their burdens of pain; lay aside their cross, and secure health and happiness. If you are sick or in trouble, do not hesitate. Read the advertisement and follow the advice. Do not forget the number or the manner of directing your letters. Consultation Office, 540, Washington street, San Francisco. Dec-3m

MEDICAL ADVICE.—DR. WM. K. DOHERTY'S Medical and Surgical Institute is becoming a sine quo non to the welfare of our State and heath of our citizens; and his rapidly spreading reputation, although it may excite surprise, is but the signal of skill, and follows as the natural result of such a cause. We are personally acquainted with gentlemen who had suffered for years under chronic disease, and who had taken advantage of every available means that promised relief, but without success, until they called upon Dr. Doherty, who, in an incredibly short space of time, has given them entire relief. It is gratifying to announce this fact, because the Dr. is a gentleman who seeks, not by defamation of others, to establish his reputation or ruin of another's fame. The Doctor conducts his own Institute in such a manner must be gratifying to all his patients. He examines, advises, and recommends without charge, and the patient, after hearing his terms for treatment, can accept or reject at pleasure. In no case does the Doctor make a charge unless he effects a cure. This he is able to do, because he feels the confidence which long experience has given, and no doubt the consolation which appertain to that confidence. Persons afflicted with either acute or chronic disease, would do well to consult the Doctor; at all events, it can do no harm, as for consultation he asks no fee; nor does he insist on obedience to his advice unless the patient places himself under his care. His offices are on Sacramento street, opposite the Pacific Mail Steamship office.—News

CALIFORNIANS should test the merits of DR. HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. While it is highly palatable as a beverage, it is unequalled as a tonic and invigorator. In the pursuit of fortune at the mines, many persons are exposed to the attacks of complaints of the digestive organs, and various kinds of fever. It is the very article that has so long been in demand in the mines. Its daily use will the tone of a deranged stomach, impart fresh vitality to the digestive functions, and cheer the spirits. Yet the Bitters is the safest of all stimulants. Let the miner who is exposed to hot and dry, wet and cold, be certain to obtain a supply of the genuine Hostetter Bitter, and he will find it a certain safeguard to health. Dec9-3m

DR. J. F. GIBBON.—This celebrated physician has returned to San Francisco, after an absence of a year, during which time he has visited the prominent hospitals in the United States, England and France; and having carefully studied the different mode of treatment in all those establishments, he comes back with full knowledge as to a proper adaptation of them in the effecting of cures here. He has returned and resumed the practice of his profession at No. 517 Kearney street, where his old patients may find him, and those who are suffering from ills which his practice will allow him to cure. His capd will be found in another column.

DEATH OF OLE BULL.

The celebrated violinist, Ole Borneman Bull, who died at Quebec on the 10th of April, was born at Bergen, in Norway, on the 5th of February 1810. His passion for music manifested itself at a very early age, but was repressed by his father, who had destined him for the church, and at the age of eighteen placed at the University of Coristinia, with which his connection was dissolved because he took temporary charge of the orchestra at one of the theatres during the illness of the leader. In 1829 he went to Cassell to study with Spohr, but his reception was so cold as to almost entirely suppress his musical enthusiasm, which had thus far withstood both the frowns of his father and the disfavor of the professors. He then began to study law at Gottengen, but soon recovered from the despondency caused by his interview with Spohr, and only then determined to devote himself to his art, and went to Minden, where he gave his first concert with considerable success. At this place a quarrel with a fellow-artist resulted in a challenge, and in a duel which followed his antagonist was mortally wounded. Compelled to leave the country, he went to Paris, where he led a most precarious and wretched existence, from which, after being robbed of everything he possessed, including his violin, he attempted to release himself by drowning. He was not destined however, to die in the Seine, from which he was rescued and taken to the house of a recently bereaved mother, who found in him a remarkable resemblance to her dead son, and assisted him so liberally that he was enabled to appear in public in the profession he had chosen, namely, that of a violinist.

His career as an artist had now fairly begun, and the next seven years were spent in professional tours through Europe, by which he acquired not only an extended reputation, but a handsome fortune. In 1838 he returned to his native place with his wife, a Parisian woman, and five years later made his first visit to the United States. The enthusiasm with which he was received here, and the pecuniary success of his first professional tour through this country, are still fresh in the minds of musical readers who heard him at that time, and need not be recapitulated here. In 1845 he returned to Europe, and during the succeeding seven years gave a series of concerts in the principal cities of the continent, made a campaign in Algeria against the Kaybles under Gen. Yusuf, built a theater in his native town, and made an effort to establish in Norway national schools in literature and art. His liberality and patriotism brought him in contact with the police because of his political preferences, and a number of vexatious lawsuits dissipated his fortune. His wife sunk under the rigors of the climate, and in 1852 he made his second visit to this country. In the same year he purchased a tract of uncultivated land, comprising 120,000 acres in Potter county, Pennsylvania, and founded an agricultural colony, to which the name of Oleana was given, in honor to its founder. The project, however, was only partially successful, and to relieve the pecuniary embarrassments which followed, he resumed his concerts. Upon the completion of the Academy of Music, in 1854, he leased the building and undertook the management of the Italian Opera, which, however, proved extremely disastrous, and at the end of two months, was abandoned. He again returned to Europe, and since then has been occupied in giving concerts in all portions of that country and this, with great success. His misfortunes were many, and notwithstanding his perseverance, energy and genius, they followed him until, at the age of fifty-six, death found him a poor shattered, unhappy and disappointed man.—New York Tribune.

THE BURDELL MURDER.

Some light has recently been thrown upon the mysterious murder of Dr. Burdell, at New York, in 1857, by the confession of a young man calling himself Charles H. Golden, while under arrest in Newbury Port, Mass., and in jail.

His story is that he was living in New York, a dealer in jewelry, and boarding with Frederick J. Rody, No. 64 James street. He became acquainted with Mrs. Cunningham, and from time to time made her presents. Often visited the house of Dr. Burdell, where he was intimate with Mrs. Cunningham and her two daughters, frequently stopping there day and night. Knew Snodgrass, who appeared in the trial as the particular friend of the elder daughter, while he, Golden, was the "lovver" of the younger, Augusta. He overheard Mrs. Cunningham and Snodgrass talking of a child, she saying that if Dr. Burdell was out of the way she could obtain the property. She said she could not trust Dr. Eckel, who was stopping there with the job, but Charley, meaning himself, was a good hand, and in her confidence. A short time after this conversation, on the night of the murder, at which time he was engaged to attend the theater with Miss Augusta, Mrs. Cunningham held a conversation with him, saying that the property was soon to be hers, inquiring if he had the heart of an ox, and if he would have scruples to commit crime if it would bring him twenty-five thousand dollars. "You know, Charley," she continues, "that Dr. Burdell is worth one hundred thousand dollars, you and Augusta shall have twenty thousand dollars of it. She handed him a dirk, and asked him if he would do anything for Augusta's sake. Then, his story is, that he threw the knife on the table, and soon after left for the theater, Mrs. Cunningham telling Snodgrass that Charley had caved."

On their return at half-past one, he noticed the smoky smell in the street, met Mrs. Cunningham with a napkin stained with blood, saw Snodgrass in his room, the bosom of his shirt stained with blood, as he said from the nose bleed, and went to bed feeling that the murder had been committed.

Early the next morning, when there were outcries of murder, Mrs. Cunningham advised him to leave as soon as possible, to get out of New York, and if possible to go to England. She gave him nine hundred dollars to pay his expenses, insisting that he should not visit the house again, saying that the property was hers, but asking his return after the excitement was past. He stopped that night at the Astor House, then at No. 64 James street, and sailed for New Orleans in the ship Memphis Captain Davis, as a sailor.

THE teacher of one of the freedmen's schools was examining the class in geography. Pointing to Africa on the map, he said, "What country is that children?" They all responded, Africa." "That," said the teacher, "is where your ancestors came from—your fathers and mothers." At this remark a bright looking little colored chap jumped up and said: "Oh, no, mass'r teacher, dat ain't so—my pa is a white man, and lives in Raleigh!"

"WHAT'S the matter, Bill?"

"Mammy has fell up stairs and stuck a knot hole in her hand, and John won't go for the boot-jack to pull it out. Where's the shotecary pop's?"

Exit Bill, hollerin fire!

MILTON was once asked why he did not teach his daughters foreign languages. "Surely one tongue is enough for a woman," was his reply.

IMPORTANT

MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

ELECTRICITY AS A CURATIVE AGENT

When it was promulgated by the Directors of the Electropathic Institute that disease could be entirely eradicated from the system without the use of poisonous drugs the thoughtless and those who do not look deeply into cause and effect scouted the assertion as chimerical, and wrote articles replete with sophistry, claiming that only through the digestive system could the blood be purged of the poisons which constitute disease; a great cry went up from those interested in the continued supremacy of the old system of one poison to cure another. All of the empirics joined in the chorus, and in their ignorance laughed at the new system, circulating false stories of its ill success, and quoting imaginary cases as proofs. Time has demonstrated their dishonesty. After five years of uninterrupted success the Electropathetic system is the leading idea in medical jurisprudence. While by the old system, physicians are contented to cure one in every five cases, there were those who were diving deep into the science of the curative art; among these were the Electropathists; finally, it was discovered that the failure in most of the cases of organic diseases, was entirely due to the machine. Taking this view of the case, Dr. J. H. Josselyn, after years of experiment, has perfected an Electropathic Instrument, which will cure any disease which flesh is heir to, always to be understood that the case is not so far advanced as to show a destruction of the vital tissue. From early morn until late at night, this instrument is employed, imparting health and vigor to all who are so fortunate as to obtain its services. We do not claim that the use of medicines may not be more advantageous in some cases, but, that in connection with machines, it will perform a cure much sooner than without, and also that diseases hitherto deemed incurable, can be cured by this system, but the Directors desire to take this opportunity to inform invalids that the Resident Physician is a regular graduate and has had large experience in the treatment of disease, both with and without the assistance of electricity; he has also discovered several "electric" Vegetable remedies that will cure almost any nameable disease, which he will send with full instructions for use, to any part of the Pacific coast upon a receipt of a complete description of the disease with which the applicant may be afflicted, and will warrant a complete and perfect cure in all cases where the medicines are used according to directions and more especially in all cases of female troubles, where great care and caution are necessary to a favorable result. Disease (which by the old system) took months, and even years to cure, are now cured in a few days or weeks. The cost, too, is not so great as by the old system, besides the saving of time. Connected with this system are the renowned than which there is no more powerful auxiliary in the world for the radical cure of disease. There is no institute in the State where the electropathic system is practiced, except at the

Electropathic Institute,

645 Washington street.

This Institute was established to, if possible prevent the unwary from falling into those dens of robbery (yclept quack doctors' traps,) and hereafter the scientific originators of this Institute will not be to blame if the afflicted are robbed of their money, and injured in constitution. There is another view of the affair. The rising generation should be reared with strong constitutions, and the Directors wish to arouse their guardians to a proper sense of their duties in the premises, if possible to prevent them from stuffing their young charges with deleterious drugs, with a chance of entailing upon the tender constitution just forming, a complication of evils, a thousand times worse than death.

It would be consuming space, to no purpose, to enumerate the diseases to which this system is applicable, suffice it to say, that there is no disease, within the catalogue of human ills but what can be cured at the Electropathic Institute. We have instructed the Resident Physician to warrant a perfect and permanent cure, or ask no pay for services, when in his judgement it is within the bounds of cure.

CAUTION.

Persons seeking the Electropathic Institute, should be careful to remember the name and number.

Horrible Diseases.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1, 1865.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering ont a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system. Look at their pallid, amaciated and disfigured faces, and their broken constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians and friends attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible, life-destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them to DR. GIBBON, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended Doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strick inquiry, or may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Syphilis is Syphilis the world over, so is small pox, consumption and other diseases, to the contrary of what quacks may say.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Weakness, the consequence of sel-abuse.—This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combated by scientific medical measures: sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunt intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained should apply immediately either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by this new and scientific mode of treating this complaint, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give $100 to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured by either of the San Francisco quacks.

DR. GIBBON is responsible and will give to each patient a written instrument binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to DR. GIBBON, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicine promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for one dollars, sent in a registered leter, or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 617 Kearney street, near Commercial, San Francisco, Postoffice Box 252.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and prerenders who, with bogus sworn to certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly papers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen, and become too lazy to work at their trade. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper-carriers, intelligence office, keepers, etc.—Look over the San Francisco City Directory and you will find their former occupation in it. Look at the Directory for 1865, the only way to avoid imposition is make inquiry—it will cost you nothing and may save you many regrets, for, advertising physicians in eight cases of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting till you know what they are. DR. GIBBON does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patients' letters, etc. DR. GIBBON will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.

PRIVATE MEDICAL AID.

QUICK CURES AND MODERATE CHARGES.

DR. W. K. DOHERTY'S

Private Medical and Surgical Institute,

Sacramento Street, below Montgomery, opposite the Pacific Mail Steamship Company's Office. Private entrance on Leidesdorff street, San Francisco.

Established expressly to afford the afflicted sound and Scientific Medical Aid, in the treatment and cure of all Private and Chronic Diseases, cases of secrecy and all Sexual Diseases.

TO THE AFFLICTED.

DR. W. K. DOHERTY returns his sincere thanks to his numerous patients for their patronage, and would take this opportunity to remind them that he continues to consult at his Institute for the cure of chronic diseases of the Lungs, Liver, Kidneys, Digestive and Genito-Urinary Organs, and all private diseases, viz: Syphilis in all its forms and stages, Seminal Weakness, and all the horrid consequences of self-abuse, Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Strictures, Nocturnal and Diurnal emissions, Sexual Disability, Diseases of the Back and Loins, Inflammation of the Bladder and Kidneys, etc., etc., and he hopes that his long experience and successful practice will continue to ensure him a share of public prtronage. By the practice of many years in Europe and the United States, he is enabled to apply the most efficient and successful remedies against diseases of all kinds. He uses no mercury, charges moderate, treats his patients in a correct and honorable way, and has references from men of known respectability and high standing in society. All parties consulting him by letter or otherwise, will receive the best and gentlest treatment, and implicit secrecy.

DR. DOHERTY would call attention to the following certificates from two of his patients, who, having fully recovered their health, desire to make known their remedial agent. It will be seen their statements are fully authenticated by a Notary Public.

The welfare of society imperiously demand their publicity, and they are given more to warn the unwary than to sound the praise of a Physician, of whom hundreds of like cases can be cited during a practice of more than fifteen years.

DR. DOHERTY—Dear Sir: I feel my health so fully restored, that in common gratitude, I believe I should make you some some written acknowledgement for your valuable services—particularly as your fee was small for the work performed.

I arrived in this city from the East about one year ago, and was then suffering from an old case of Gleet, complicated with Stricture. Being a stranger in this city, and believing those Doctors who gave such positive assurances of success were necessarily the best, (some of whom have a large number of titles,) I placed myself in their charge and continued under their treatment until I had lost nearly all hope and a considerable sum of money.

I wish to say now that you are the sixth Doctor I have employed, and the only one that has ever done me any service. My Gleet is wholly cured, the Stricture is all removed, and my general health is beter than it has been for years.

In conclusion, I would say to the many unfortunates who require medical advice, if you have any doubt as to whom you may employ, ask Dr. Doherty for my address and call and see me. (I keep store in this city.) My experience may save you many dollars.

I would also add that in the early stage of my disease, I used a large amount of the preparations advertised as an infallible cure for Gonorrhœa, Gleet, etc., but never derived any benefit from them.

I am, Doctor, very truly yours, L—— H——.

San Francisco, June 16, 1864.

Seminal Weakness—A Sworn-to Certificate of a most Remarkable Cure of Spermatorrhœa.

A desire to benefit humanity, and a feeling of gratitude to Dr. W. K. Doherty, alone induces me to make this statement. For many years I have been afflicted with that fearful disease known as "Spermatorrhœa," or Seminal Weakness, the result of self-abuse, but till 1865 experienced but little trouble or inconvenience. In, that year however, I had Seminal Weakness to an alarming extent, which was soon followed by the most alarming symptons as weakness of the back and limbs, pain in the head, dimness of vision, nervousness and general debility. My mind, too, was afflicted to such an extent as to seriously impair my memory; my ideas were confused and spirits depressed. I was averse to society, had evil forebodings and self-distrust, and was entirely unfitted for any of the duties of life. From 1855 to the summer of 1863, I employed the very best medical talent I could find, and spent several hundred dollars, but in no instance obtained more than temporary relief. I had about concluded there was no relief for me in this world, but seeing Dr. Doherty's advertisement, I thought I would call and see him, as he charged nothing for consultation. I had an interview with Dr. Doherty at his office, in Sacramento street, and his fee for treatment was so reasonable, I determined to try him, though I did not expect much benefit from his treatment. On the 5th of December last I placed myself under his care; in one week I found myself very much improved, and, now, after five weeks' treatment, I feel myself thoroughly cured of all my troubles and in the enjoyment of the best health. Hoping that my experience may be of benefit to others similarly afflicted, I subscribe myself

JAMES JOHNSTON.

Subscribed and sworn to before me, this 15th day of January, A. D. 1864.

[L. S.] A. G. RANDALL, Notary Public.

To Females.

When a female is in trouble, or afflicted with disease as weakness of the back and limbs, pain in the head, dimness of sight, loss of muscular power, palpitation of the heart, irritability, nervousness, extreme urinary difficulties, derangement of digestive functions, general debility, vaginitis, all diseases of the womb, hysteria, sterility, and all other diseases peculiar to females, they should go or write at once to the celebrated female doctor, W. K. Doherty, at his Medical Institute, and consult him about their troubles and disease. The Doctor is effecting more cures than any other physician in the State of California. Let no false delicacy prevent you, but apply immediately and save yourself from painful sufferings and premature death. All Married Ladies whose delicate health or other circumstances prevent an increase in their families should write or call at Dr. W. K. Doherty's Medical Institute, and they will receive every possible relief and help. The Doctor's offices are so arranged that he can be consulted without fear of observation.

To Correspondents.

Patients residing in any part of the State, however distant, who may desire the opinion and advice of Dr. Doherty on their respective cases, and who think proper to submit a written statement of such, in preference to holding a personal interview, are respectfully assured that their communications will be held most sacred. Dr. Doherty takes this opportunity of observing, that all letters are only opened and replied to by himself, and the latter as promptly as possible.

If the case be fully and candidly described, personal communication will be superseded, as instructions for diet, regimen, and the general treatment of the case (including the remedies), will be forwarded without delay, and in such a manner as to convey no purport of the letter or parcel so transmitted.

☞ Consultation at the office FREE. Permanent cure guaranteed or no pay. Address,

W. K. DOHERTY, M. D.,
San Francisco, California.

THIS CELEBRATED INSTITUTE

has enjoyed on this coast an uninterrupted success of fourteen years and has become one of the renowned Hospitals of this age. What the celebrated Lock Hospital is to London and the no less renowned establishment of Ricord is to Paris, this Institute has become to the Pacific coast. The thousands annually received and cured place it in point of number of patients among the very first of the world, and the success of its treatment ranks it second to none.

PRIVATE DISEASES IN MALE and IRREGULARITIES IN FEMALES are the great destroyers of health They insidiously attack the system and gradually undermine and destroy it; they drive the bloom from the cheek, the lustre from the eye, the strength from the frame; they give to the wretched puny and diseased offspring, and poison, through successive generations the race of man. The marks of these can be seen in Scrofula, Consumption, Cripples, the Idiotic, the Paralytic, the Insane, etc.

There is no more terrible scourge to the human race than those diseases arising from the contamination of Venerial Poison. The mildest forms, by permeating to the blood, hold over the afflicted one, the destruction that is liable at any moment to fall and blight—to utterly destroy—all earthly hopes.

MERCURY, recognized as the most fatal medical enemy to man, combining with the Venereal, doubles in dangers. Those who have been treated with that pernicious mineral poison are not cured; the disease has only assumed a new form.

Do not be satisfied with Partial Cures that leave the poison to crawl through the system, eating its way into the tissues and organs beneath the apparently smooth surface, to burst out in the future with a virulence that will baffle the effects of medicine. WHEN PERFECT CURES can be obtained by consulting a physician whose long practice and thorough investigation into the causes of DISEASES of the URINARY ORGANS enables to determine at once the nature of the disease.

In all cases entrusted to the Doctor's care, PERFECT SPEEDY and PERMANENT Cures are always Guaranteed.

In syphilis and its adjuncts, Gonorrhœa and its accompanying diseases; and all diseases of the Bladder, Kidneys, and prostrate; Seminal Weakness; Diseases of the Heart and Lungs; Dyspepsia; Indigestion, Leprosency; Incipient consumption, and all diseases of the urinary organs, in either sex, are always warranted, NO PAY REQUIRED, at the

SEMINAL WEAKNESS OR SPERMATORRHŒA

The young man who experiences that growing weakness in his muscular and mental organization should stop to consider whence arises. He will find in the weakness of the back, trembling of the limbs, disordered digestion unaccountable fading of the powers of the mind, disaste for society, dread of impending trouble, forebodings of evil, sleeplessness, troubled and lascivious dreams, accompanied by growing deafness, loss of muscular power, and numerous other symptons of diseased emission, the positive traces of that most terrible and destructive of all diseases Seminal Weakness—wasting away his powers, destroying his hope of life and manhood, and dragging him alone the broken path of his existence towards a premature and loathsome grave. To him who finds his life dribbling out in the discharge of the vital principle of existence in nocturnal and diurnal emissions, the mere cessation of its appearance brings no assurance of relief.

Marriage, that holy office, the safeguard and hope of manhood, brings to such an one no hope of cure, but adds to his misery in the knowledge that the one who looks to him for so much of her happiness, is a victim to his evil, and an innocent companion of his punishment He adds to his misery and remorse under until hope leaves him. There is no rescue except in proper and skillful treatment. Consult then, at once, a physician whom long practice and careful research has made thoroughly conversant with every phase of the disease. Those who have become the victims of solitary vices, that dreadful, fascinating and destructive habit, which fills thousands of sick-rooms with paralytics and consumptives, and hundreds of untimely graves with its misguided victims, should consult, without a moment's delay, one who will sympathize with their sufferings. To such the Doctor would especially address himself, giving to each and all assurance of a PERFECT and PERMANENT CURE without hindrance to business, change of diet, or fear of exposure.

Do not forget the address. See below.

Important to Females.

When a female is in trouble, or afflicted with disease and requires medical or surgical assistance, the enquiry should be, Where is there a physician who is fully competent to administer relief, and whose respectable standing in society recommends him to the confidence of the community? The Doctor understanding how imperatively necessary these requirements are, feels called upon to interpose, and by the attention of the afflicted to the fact that he has been a Professor of Obstetrics and Female Diseases for twenty years, and is fully qualified to administer in all cases, both medically and surgically, not in a superficial manner, but in as thorough a manner as years of study and practice—both in hospitals and private families—can make, to save them from the hands of the unqualified, unscrupulous and designing. Therefore families can rely upon him as upon a father. All in affliction can find in him one who will feel and sympathize with and befriend them in trouble—one in whose secrecy the utmost confidence can be placed. Consultation by letter or otherwise, FREE. See address below.

THE CELEBRATED FEMALE REMEDIES, compounded from the private prescription of Dr. Young, have now obtained a most extended popularity, and are correctly viewed to be the safest and surest remedies for the complaints for which they are applied.
